Message from IPSI Director

In the past few years, we've witnessed exponential membership growth, underscoring the increasing global recognition of the importance of the Satoyama Initiative's mission. Each member brings unique perspectives, expertise and resources, enriching our collective efforts to promote sustainable landscapes and seascapes.

A pivotal moment during this year was the Ninth Global Conference of IPSI (IPSI-9). At this gathering, IPSI members united to deliberate on our roadmap towards realizing the Kunming-Montreal Global Biodiversity Framework (GBF) and the Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs) with a new strategy and plan of action for IPSI. Adopting the new IPSI Strategy and Plan of Action 2023–2030 charts a course for our future endeavours, guiding us as we navigate the complex challenges of biodiversity conservation and sustainable development.

Throughout the year, IPSI remained actively engaged on the global stage, participating in events such as the UN High-Level Political Forum on Sustainable Development and the UN Climate Change Conference (COP 28). We seized every opportunity to advocate for the principles of the Satoyama Initiative and to contribute to crucial discussions shaping the global sustainability and biodiversity agendas.

The publication of the eighth volume of the Satoyama Initiative Thematic Review in September 2023 further solidified our commitment to ecosystem restoration. This contribution aligns with the objectives of the UN Decade on Ecosystem Restoration, reaffirming our role as a leading voice in this vital global initiative.

None of our achievements would have been possible without the unwavering support of our member organizations and partners. We extend our sincerest gratitude to all of you for your dedication, collaboration and tireless efforts. We also express our heartfelt appreciation to the Ministry of the Environment, Government of Japan (MOEJ), for its steadfast financial support, which enables us to advance our core activities and fulfill our mission.

As we embark on the journey ahead, let us remain steadfast in our commitment to building resilient and sustainable societies. Together, we can continue to make meaningful strides towards realizing the vision of the Satoyama Initiative and creating a world where humanity and nature thrive together.

Overview

April 2023 - March 2024

The International Partnership for the Satoyama Initiative (IPSI) completed its thirteenth year of operation since its launch in October 2010. The network witnessed a substantial growth in membership, totalling 314 organizations in pursuit of the Satoyama Initiative's vision of "societies in harmony with nature" around the world.

A significant milestone was IPSI-9 in July 2023, where IPSI members gathered to discuss IPSI's roadmap towards achieving the Kunming-Montreal Global Biodiversity Framework (GBF) and adopted the new IPSI Strategy and Plan of Action 2023 – 2030.

Throughout the year, IPSI organized and participated in events of global significance. Notably among these were a side event at the UN High-Level Political Forum on Sustainable Development (HLPF) 2023, a parallel event at the UN Climate Change Conference (COP 28) in the Resilience Hub and the International Forum for Sustainable Asia and the Pacific (ISAP) 2023 Thematic Track Session.

The eighth volume of the Satoyama Initiative Thematic Review (SITR)— an annual publication series disseminating knowledge and policy recommendations based on IPSI case studies— on Ecosystem Restoration through Managing Socio-Ecological Production Landscapes and Seascapes (SEPLS) was published in September, contributing to the global initiative the UN Decade on Ecosystem Restoration.

The IPSI Steering Committee convened three times during the year, welcoming 16 new members and endorsing three IPSI Collaborative Activities.

As always, we at the IPSI Secretariat at the United Nations University Institute for the Advanced Study of Sustainability (UNU-IAS) in Tokyo, Japan would like to thank all IPSI member organizations and everyone who has contributed to the partnership's continuing success. We particularly appreciate the Ministry of the Environment, Government of Japan (MOEJ) for its financial support for IPSI's core activities.

Partnership

IPSI welcomed 16 new members, bringing the total number of member organizations to 314. We are proud to see IPSI's representation strengthen and expand globally. IPSI is committed to broadening its membership and representing underrepresented organizations like Indigenous Peoples, local communities and the private sector.

These new members bring diverse expertise and perspectives to IPSI, enriching our global network and advancing our shared goals of promoting sustainable landscapes and resilient communities. Find the full list of IPSI members and learn more about our collaborative initiatives at satoyama-initiative.org. Organizations that joined IPSI:

- Asian Development Bank (ADB) As a leading intergovernmental organization based in the Philippines, ADB has extensive experience in sustainable development and scaling up green and blue finance.
- Benin Environment and Education Society (BEES) This NGO from Benin aims to improve the quality of natural resources, particularly wetlands, through sustainable and responsible actions that benefit locals.
- Centre for Ecology Development and Research (CEDAR)

 Based in India, CEDAR specializes in bridging research and field interventions for sustainable development in the Himalayan region.
- Dharma Drum Institute of Liberal Arts (DILA) An academic institution in Taiwan, Province of China, specializes in environmental and sustainable development studies. It facilitates partnerships with the Taiwan Partnership for the Satoyama Initiative (TPSI).
- Foundation for Research and Sustainable Development (FUNINDES) — Operating in Colombia, FUNINDES conducts research on aquatic biodiversity and advocates for their conservation and local sustainable development.

- Global Diversity Foundation Headquartered in England, this NGO offers changemakers the resources they need to achieve solutions to complex challenges.
- Morocco Biodiversity & Livelihoods Association (MBLA) —MBLA works to protect ecosystems and support rural economies in the Atlas Mountains of Morocco.
- NatureMind-ED Company based in Thailand, NatureMind-ED promotes environmental connection and cultural sustainability for human health and planetary resilience.
- Owase City Located in Japan, self-declared "Owase Zero Carbon City," it aims for carbon neutrality by 2050 through initiatives such as forest restoration and seaweed bed conservation.
- Resource Conservation Initiative (RESCONI) Based in Ghana, promotes environmental awareness, climate mitigation and community development while advocating for the rights of marginalized groups.
- Seed Coleus Greenhouse This research institute in Taiwan, Province of China is actively involved in new agricultural initiatives, focusing on biodiversity conservation, carbon credit programs and luminous plants.
- Thailand Environment Institute (TEI) As a nonprofit organization in Thailand, TEI focuses on driving environmentally sound policies, assisting communities and strengthening environmental management capacity.
- Tram Tau Protection Forest Management Board This government authority in Viet Nam manages and protects headwater forests in the Tram Tau District.
- Watch Nature Ecological Consultant Co., Ltd (WNECC)

 A private company in Taiwan, Province of China, WNEC fosters community-based conservation to promote sustainable biodiversity use and local well-being.
- Yolda Dernegi (Yolda Initiative) An NGO in Türkiye, Yolda promotes traditional cultural practices, particularly mobile pastoralism, for biodiversity conservation and climate change mitigation and adaptation.
- Woman, Development, Future Public Union This organization in Azerbaijan advocates for gender equality and women's empowerment through cultural events, aid and collaboration with local and international agencies.

Event Highlights

IPSI's diverse membership continues to be involved in various events around the world. Below is a list of events specifically organized on behalf of IPSI or were otherwise particularly relevant to the partnership.

IPSI Case Study Workshop 2023

Credit: UNU-IAS

5–7 July 2023: Held in Akita, Japan this workshop was a step towards publishing Volume 9 of SITR (SITR-9). Focused on the theme "Business and biodiversity: reciprocal connections in the context of socio-ecological production landscapes and seascapes (SEPLS)" it explored connections between businesses and socio-ecological production landscapes and seascapes. Authors shared case studies and received feedback to improve their manuscripts, contributing valuable insights to the ongoing assessment of business impacts on biodiversity for the Intergovernmental Science-Policy Platform on Biodiversity and Ecosystem Services (IPBES).

SITR-9 is scheduled to be published on 12 January 2025 by Springer Nature Publishing.

Ninth IPSI Global Conference (IPSI-9)

Credit: UNU-IAS

8–11 July 2023: Hosted at the Akita International University (AIU) in Japan, IPSI-9 provided a platform to discuss IPSI's roadmap towards achieving the GBF. The conference included discussions on IPSI's objectives, contributions to the new global biodiversity framework and the development of the new IPSI Strategy and Plan of Action. IPSI-9 also featured a Public Forum on youth innovation and its contributions to SEPLS, alongside the IPSI General Assembly and the Nineteenth Meeting of the IPSI Steering Committee (SC-19). For more details on IPSI-9, see the next section.

UN HLPF Side Event on COMDEKS

13 July 2023: This online side event titled "Implementation of the Kunming-Montreal Global Biodiversity Framework through the Satoyama Initiative/COMDEKS 4" discussed practical implementation of the GBF through the Community Development and Knowledge Management for the Satoyama Initiative (COMDEKS), an IPSI flagship programme that promotes sustainable use of biodiversity and natural resources within local communities through small-scale project financing.

The event was co-organized by the Keidanren Committee on Nature Conservation (KCNC); MOEJ; the Secretariat of Convention on Biological Diversity (SCBD); UNU-IAS; and UNDP Global Environment Facility Small Grants Programme (GEF SGP). For details, see here.

Twenty-fifth Meeting of the Subsidiary Body on Scientific, Technical and Technological Advice (SBSTTA-25) of the Convention on Biological Diversity (CBD) Side Event on Landscape Approaches in Ecosystem Restoration

16 October 2023: This side event titled "Catalyzing Naturebased Solutions for Biodiversity, Climate Change and Sustainable Development through Ecosystem Restoration" was jointly organized by UNU-IAS, the IPSI Secretariat and MOEJ. Taking place in Nairobi, Kenya, the event highlighted the role of integrated landscape approaches in achieving the goals of the GBF and the UN Decade on Ecosystem Restoration. The event showcased successful examples of restoration efforts featured in the new UNU-IAS book Ecosystem Restoration through Managing Socio-Ecological Production Landscapes and Seascapes (SEPLS) and announced the launch of a new guide for policymakers Using Landscape Approaches in National Biodiversity Strategy and Action Planning (see p. 14). More details about the event here.

UN Climate Change Conference Event at the Resilience Hub

Credit: Nicholas Turner / UNU-IAS

8 December 2023: The event titled "Advancing disaster risk reduction & ecosystem restoration for climate adaptation" took place at the Resilience Hub and included an interactive session in which participants shared experiences and brainstormed solutions. Convening experts from diverse sectors engineering, business, academia, Indigenous Peoples and local communities — the event explored collaborative approaches to socio-ecological resilience. Defined as the capacity to adapt or transform in response to unforeseen changes in socioecological systems while maintaining human well-being.

Organized by UNU-IAS, UNU Institute on Comparative Regional Integration Studies (UNU-CRIS), UNU Maastricht Economic and Social Research Institute on Innovation and Technology (UNU-MERIT) and the International Coalition for Sustainable Infrastructure (ICSI). For more information, see here.

First SATOYAMA Forum by the AEON Environmental Foundation

12 December 2023: The inaugural SATOYAMA forum was held at UNU Headquarters in Tokyo, Japan to discuss the satoyama model for sustainable living and biodiversity conservation. It showcased innovative solutions stemming from collaborative efforts between Japanese universities and IPSI member the AEON Environmental Foundation. For more details, see here.

Special Session at the Regional Dialogue on National Biodiversity Strategies and Action Plans (NBSAPs) for South and East Asia

Credit: UNU-IAS

23 January 2024: The Regional Dialogue was part of a series of dialogues convened by the CBD Secretariat in 2023 and 2024 to share experiences and facilitate mutual learning for updating and revising NBSAPs, including national targets, in alignment with the GBF. The IPSI Secretariat held a special event highlighting IPSI's work on the revitalization and sustainable management of SEPLS around the world. It also promoted SITR and gave an overview of the publication Using Landscape Approaches in National Biodiversity Strategy and Action Planning. For more details, see here.

International Forum for Sustainable Asia and the Pacific (ISAP) 2023 Thematic Track Session on the Satoyama Initiative

29 January 2024: The session titled "SEPLS Management as Integrated, Inclusive and Localized Actions towards a Nature Positive Society" was held online as a Thematic Track Session of ISAP 2023, in partnership with UNU-IAS and the Institute for Global Environmental Strategies (IGES). The session discussed the Satoyama Development Mechanism (SDM)— a seed funding programme that supports projects to promote, conserve or restore SEPLS (see page 12). Recipients of SDM grants in 2022 showcased their project outcomes. For more details, see here.

Public-Private Partnership Event for COMDEKS Phase 4

13 February 2024: This event titled "Societies Living in Harmony with Nature: Public-Private Partnerships for COMDEKS Phase 4" was hosted by KCNC and MOEJ in collaboration with UNDP GEF SGP and UNU-IAS. The event presented first-hand insights from COMDEKS case studies in Cambodia and Costa Rica, illustrating how economic diversification can create synergies with the restoration of landscapes and enhancement of biodiversity. For more information, see here.

Ninth IPSI Global Conference

IPSI-9 was held from 8 to 11 July 2023 at AIU in Akita, Akita Prefecture, Japan. The conference was co-organized by UNU-IAS, IPSI Secretariat, MOEJ and AIU.

IPSI Global Conferences consist of a General Assembly, a Public Forum and a Steering Committee meeting.

Public Forum, co-organized by the Global Youth Biodiversity Network (GYBN), AIU and the IPSI Secretariat, drew more than 100 participants including IPSI members and the public. The forum showcased presentations on IPSI's role within the GBF, underscored the transformative potential of youth in GBF implementation and featured panel discussions addressing intergenerational knowledge transfer and barriers hindering youth engagement in SEPLS.

General Assembly

At IPSI-9, the General Assembly brought together a diverse array of IPSI member organizations. With over 180 representatives from member institutions worldwide, the General Assembly deliberated on various matters concerning the operations and strategic direction of IPSI. Key highlights included reports from the IPSI Steering Committee, the Sub-Committee tasked with revising the Strategy and Plan of Action and updates from the IPSI Secretariat. Notably, members endorsed the new IPSI Strategy and Plan of Action 2023-2030, which outlines five new strategic objectives guiding members in contributing to activities aligned with the Satoyama Initiative at local, national, regional and international levels and contribute to the implementation of the GBF.

- Knowledge Co-Production, Management, and Uptake
- Institutional Frameworks and Capacity Development
- Area-Based Conservation Measures
- Ecosystem Restoration
- Sustainable Value Chain Development

by UNCTAD, ecosystem restoration initiatives by the Asian Development Bank and two SDM-funded projects. Facilitators summarized key insights gleaned from the breakout sessions, highlighting imperatives such as the integration of diverse knowledge systems, clarity in conceptual frameworks and heightened advocacy for the SEPLS paradigm among decisionmakers.

Beyond formal sessions, IPSI-9 offered enriching study tours, hosted by AIU, to various sites across the Akita Prefecture. These tours provided participants with firsthand experiences of traditional knowledge and production practices in Japan, alongside opportunities to immerse themselves in the local cultural landscape and savour its culinary delights.

See the IPSI-9 Summary Report for more details.

Collaborative Activities

IPSI endorsed 3 new collaborative activities, bringing the total number to 63, of which 26 have been reported as successfully completed. The newly endorsed activities are:

Taiwan IPSI Members Annual Exchange events – fostering an effective implementation of the 2023-2030 IPSI Plan of Action

By the Forestry and Nature Conservation Agency (FANCA, former Forestry Bureau); National Dong Hwa University (NDHU); National Pingtung University of Science and Technology (NPUST); Dharma Drum Institute of Liberal Arts (DILA); and Taiwan Biodiversity Research Institute (TBRI).

Implement the Satoyama Initiative to promote sustainable development within the Saisiyat tribe community

By the Miaoli County Saisiyat Indigenous People Forestry and Worker Limited Liability Cooperative; Forestry and Nature Conservation Agency (FANCA); Taiwan Indigenous Ecological Agriculture Association; Nanzhuang Township Office, Miaoli County; and Penglai Elementary School, Nanzhuang Township, Miaoli County.

Mangrove restoration to improve socio-ecological production landscapes and seascapes for fisheries recovery at Lake Malombe Site

By the Grains of Hope Mobilisation; Initiative for Community Health; and Kafucheche Cooperative Group.

Satoyama Development Mechanism

In 2023, the Satoyama Development Mechanism (SDM) marked its eleventh round of funding, providing seed funding to five SEPLS-related projects around the world. Recognizing the global momentum propelling us toward 2030 and beyond, in 2022 the SDM framework underwent a strategic renewal to better support SEPLS projects.

The revamped modality included changes to the amount of funds projects could receive and a new emphasis on projects aligning with the overarching themes of the GBF. These include prioritization of projects fostering other effective area-based conservation measures (OECMs), landscape or seascape restoration, conservation and collaboration with Indigenous Peoples and local communities, resilience enhancement and sustainable food or material production.

To foster collaboration and knowledge exchange, recipients of SDM grants were invited to participate in two online workshops—an inception workshop and a project completion workshop.

Since its establishment in 2013, SDM has provided critical support to 64 transformative projects worldwide. Further details, including the annual call for applications and project selection criteria, are available on the SDM website sdm.satoyama-initiative.org. Selected SDM Sub-Grant Recipients in 2023:

• Conservation Alliance International (NGO or civil society organization, Ghana)

Safeguarding the Ecological Integrity of the Atewa Forest Reserve through the Promotion of Best Agroecological Practices

Green Movement of Sri Lanka (NGO or civil society organization, Sri Lanka)

Organizing a 5-P Workshop Series to Streamline the SEPLS Governance of the Gulf of Mannar and Palk Bay Region of South Asia

• IORA Ecological Solutions Pvt. Ltd. (Industry or private sector, India)

Satpura-Melghat Landscape Restoration Initiative

• Vellore Institute of Technology (Academic, educational and/or research institute, India)

Developing a Sustainable Socio-economy through the Restoration of Sacred Groves of the Malaiyali Community in the Kalrayan Hills of South India

 Vicuñas Camelidos y Ambiente (Academic, educational and/or research institute, Argentina)

Enhancing Knowledge and Awareness of Camelids with Andean Communities in the International Year of Camelids (IYC)

The Community Development and Knowledge Management for the Satoyama Initiative (COMDEKS)

COMDEKS, launched in 2011 as a flagship collaborative activity of IPSI, is a global programme funded by the Japan Biodiversity Fund (JBF) and implemented by UNDP in partnership with MOEJ, SCBD and UNU-IAS.

At its heart, COMDEKS is about empowering communities. It aims to help local communities conserve, restore and revitalize SEPLS. Through collaboration with GEF SGP, COMDEKS provides small grants to local groups for projects promoting biodiversity management and sustainable livelihoods. By sharing successful experiences, COMDEKS seeks to inspire similar actions elsewhere and learn from them. Ultimately, it aims to promote practices that harmonize societies with nature, in line with the vision of the Satoyama Initiative.

At the CBD COP 15, partners announced the launch of the fourth phase of COMDEKS, with funding totalling one billion Japanese Yen. Supported by MOEJ and KCNC, Phase 4 will expand community-based initiatives in 15 countries from 2022 to 2027: Bhutan, Cambodia, Cameroon, Costa Rica, Ghana, Jamaica, Kyrgyzstan, Morocco, Nepal, Peru, Samoa, Tanzania, Türkiye, Uganda and Viet Nam.

Descriptions of these IPSI Collaborative Activities, proposal forms and reports of completed activities can be found on the IPSI website Collaborative Activities page here.

Knowledge Product Highlights

IPSI and its members produced numerous publications and resources to advance knowledge of SEPLS during the year. Some key highlights included:

Using Landscape Approaches in National Biodiversity Strategy and Action Planning

This practical guide is designed to facilitate the integration of landscape approaches into NBSAPs — essential instruments for countries to achieve the goals and targets of the Kunming– Montreal Global Biodiversity Framework. Landscape approaches are landscape governance strategies that consider the ecological, social and economic context of a particular area, aiming to harmonize human activities with biodiversity conservation.

The guide, complemented by a video, results from a collaboration led by the IPSI Secretariat, with IGES, SCBD, MOEJ and the University of Tokyo Institute for Future Initiatives. A detailed overview of its development is provided on the IPSI website.

Satoyama Initiative Thematic Review

The Satoyama Initiative Thematic Review (SITR) is an annual publication which compiles case studies by IPSI members on timely issues concerning SEPLS and provides recommendations to decision-makers and practitioners.

The publications series began in 2015 and was made possible by the collaboration between UNU-IAS and IGES, and the financial support from MOEJ. From the sixth volume onward, SITR has been published by Springer Nature Publishing.

 Ecosystem Restoration through Managing Socio-Ecological Production Landscapes and Seascapes (SEPLS)

Volume 8 of SITR is an open-access book that provides unique insights on how to prevent the loss and degradation of ecosystems and ensure their recovery. It presents knowledge gained from areas where production activities help maintain biodiversity while sustainably supporting the livelihoods and well-being of local communities.

The book is available as open access.

Policy Briefs

In 2023, the IPSI Secretariat published a policy brief in partnership with its host UNU-IAS.

Landscape Approaches to Ecosystem Restoration: Lessons Learned from Managing Socio-Ecological Production Landscapes & Seascapes

The brief provides recommendations on facilitating ecosystem restoration through equitable, inclusive and sustainable management of landscapes and seascapes, considering ecological, socio-economic and cultural dimensions. It offers strategies on integrating restoration policy and practice through participatory multi-stakeholder engagement.

It was authored by Research Fellows Maiko Nishi and Suneetha M. Subramanian from the IPSI Secretariat and UNU-IAS.

United Nations University Institute for the Advanced Study of Sustainability

POLICYBRIEF

Landscape Approaches to Ecosystem Restoration

Lessons Learned from Managing Socio-Ecological Production Landscapes & Seascapes

Recommendations:

- Start at the landscape or seascape scale to identify and mobilize local resources and capacities for long-term restoration efforts.
- Promote peer learning and knowledge sharing to develop integrated solutions for restoration and sustainable development, and upscale them for broader impact.
- Institutionalize local restoration efforts as part of coherent policies and frameworks to facilitate systemic change in human-nature interactions.

The policy brief is available for download from UNU Collections.

IPSI Case Studies

As of March 2024, 313 case studies are now publicly available on the IPSI website, and this number continues to grow as all IPSI members are expected to submit a case study as part of their membership. Various research activities are also ongoing to synthesize and extract lessons learned and good practices from the case studies.

Communications and outreach

The IPSI Secretariat updates the IPSI website with publications, news and other relevant resources. The Secretariat also produces newsletters in both English and Japanese that now reach over a thousand readers. A mini-newsletter, IPSI Live Updates, was introduced to announce time-sensitive events and ensure subscribers do not miss important deadlines. The monthly newsletter was changed to a quarterly schedule to offer more dynamic content to its subscribers.

IPSI Steering Committee & Secretariat

IPSI Steering Committee

Meetings of the IPSI Steering Committee were organized in May and June 2023, and February 2024, approving 16 new members and three IPSI Collaborative Activities.

The IPSI Secretariat would like to acknowledge the efforts of the continuing IPSI member organizations who offer their time and hard work to serve on the Steering Committee. The IPSI Steering Committee currently consists of 18 member organizations:

- Chair: Ghana National Biodiversity Committee
- Association for the Agroindustry Development in Camana (APAIC)
- Conservation International
- Conservation Solutions Afrika
- Forest Peoples Programme
- Institute for Global Environmental Strategies (IGES)
- Kathmandu Forestry College (KAFCOL)
- Marine Ecosystems Protected Areas (MEPA) Trust
- Ministry of Environment, Cambodia
- Ministry of the Environment, Government of Japan
- Nature and Livelihoods
- Platform for Agrobiodiversity Research (PAR)
- Sabah Biodiversity Centre, Natural Resources Office Sabah, Malaysia
- Secretariat of the Convention on Biological Diversity (SCBD)
- United Nations Development Programme (UNDP)
- United Nations University
- University of Georgia, Department of Geography, Neotropical Montology Collaboratory
- University of Sarajevo, Faculty of Science

IPSI Secretariat

The IPSI Secretariat continues to be hosted by UNU-IAS in Tokyo, Japan. In August 2023, Ms. Makiko Yanagiya (Deputy Director) bid farewell, followed by Ms. Miyuki Noguchi (Programme Associate) in March 2024. We express our sincere appreciation for their contributions over the past years and welcome Ms. Rina Miyake as Deputy Director and Programme Coordinator.

- Dr. Tsunao Watanabe, Director
- Makiko Yanagiya, Deputy Director, Programme Coordinator
- Rina Miyake, Deputy Director, Programme Coordinator
- Dr. Maiko Nishi, Research Fellow
- Dr. Suneetha Subramanian, Research Fellow
- Alexandra Franco Guajardo, Communications Associate
- Miyuki Noguchi, Programme Associate
- Madoka Yoshino, Programme Associate
- Kanako Yoshino, Programme Assistant

We at the IPSI Secretariat wish to convey our big thanks to all the members for their contributions and continued support in expanding and strengthening the partnership. We look forward to continuing to work closely with all IPSI partners and friends through 2024 and beyond.
